7. NACLO 2009 - round 1 scores

See <http://tangra.si.umich.edu/~radev/clo/nacl09/NACLO09R1scores.txt>

6. Announcements from February 17.

- The jury has been working around the clock. One of the problems has been completely graded. Two others are more than 50% done. We plan to have all problems graded by February 22 and then spend the next 4-5 days looking for missing scores, duplicate numbers, etc.

- We expect that the list of 100 students who qualify for round 2 to be announced by Feb. 28.

- The second round will be on March 11 (as originally announced). It will include 7 problems grouped into two parts, with a break in between. Students will be allowed to work only on Part I before the break and only on part II after the break. Some of the problems will be very difficult.

- By default, the second round will take place at the same sites as the first round. If a site change is needed, students will need to contact nacl09org@umich.edu asap.

- The jury will be online during the March 11 round.

5. We ended up having more than 1,300 registrants for the first round. After taking into account no-shows, we will end up with about 1,200 participants.

4. As of January 28, 2008 we have 1,000 registrants from 110 sites.

Some of the largest university sites are:
